mesuREMOTE

Hardware package for the remote maintenance of X-ray systems and AMD 07 metal detectors

Easy to use for all users

As no additional software components have to be installed on the systems, retrofitting is also easy. The system is available for an independent installation including an outer housing or as a set for assembly in an existing control cabinet. The components are completely pre-configured at the factory.

Compliant with design and data management

The system allows full access control for the operator. All data transfer between the system and Mesutronic, if necessary, is encrypted. In addition, the entire system can optionally be shut down on the hardware side via a key switch.
